

Helaine Schweitzer
Senior Editor
Watching America
helaines@watchingamerica.com

Feb. 5, 2018

Re: Alicja Prusaczyk

To whom it may concern:

It is my pleasure to offer this reference for Alicja Prusaczayk as an extremely talented Polish and French translator with a demonstrated commitment to linguistic work.

Alicja joined Watching America in 2015 and has been a prolific and enthusiastic member of our language team. Over the course of three years, she contributed more than 40 translations, including work that was featured on our site's front page. She is diligent about grammar and word choice, and is particularly adept at capturing the nuance and sarcasm in controversial political commentary.

Alicja has a particularly good eye for finding compelling articles to translate, and tackled subjects ranging from the 2016 U.S. presidential election to American foreign policy, climate change and immigration, from both Polish and French perspectives.

Alicja was punctual in meeting translation deadlines and always responsive to questions about clarification on the few occasions editors sought her help. I believe she will be a strong asset to any organization that enlists her skills, as she has been to ours.

Sincerely,

Helaine Schweitzer
Senior Editor, Watching America